SUPPLEMENTAL EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Richard Jaworski on January 24, 2006.

The application has been amended as follows:

The ABSTRACT of the Disclosure has been replaced with a new Abstract:

A method for testing the upstream channel of a cable modem system, using a tester, which generates and transmits a known test pattern to the Cable Modem Termination System (CMTS). If there are errors in the packet resulting from the upstream channel, the CMTS discards the packet based on standard Internet Protocol. If there are no errors the packet is returned on the downstream channel to the tester. The tester counts all returned test packets received including test packets with errors resulting in the downstream. Packets with errors are not discarded, but are checked for a portion of the repeating test pattern and checked for the correct number of bits of a test packet. All packets determined to be test packets, including those with errors, are counted over a period of time and compared to the number of packets originally sent.

CLAIM 16 has been replaced as follows:

16. (New) A method for separately determining the performance of the upstream and downstream paths of a cable network, comprising:

transmitting from a tester, Internet Protocol (IP) test packets through a cable network to a Cable Modem Terminating System, wherein the IP test packets contain instructions to return the IP test packets back to the tester;

returning the IP test packets back to the tester from the Cable Modem Terminating System, wherein some of the returned IP test packets received at the tester without errors, and some of the returned IP test packets received at the tester with errors, as a result of the downstream path;

bypassing error checking in the tester for the returned IP test packets received at the tester with the errors;

checking the IP test packets with the errors in the tester to identify the IP test packets with the errors as IP test packets;

determining if any of the IP test packets were lost in the upstream or downstream paths, wherein the determining of the downstream path is based on the IP test packets received at the tester with the errors, and the determining of the upstream path is based on the IP test packets not received at the tester; and determining over a measurement time period, performance test results of the upstream or downstream paths, based on the number of the IP test packets transmitted from the tester through the cable network to the Cable Modem Termination System compared to the number of IP test packets received at the tester with the errors and furthermore, based on the number of the IP test packets transmitted from the tester through the cable network to the Cable Modem Termination System compared to the number of IP test packets received at the tester without the errors.

CLAIM 20, at the end of the claim, replaced the comma “,” with a period “.”.
